Democratic Harmony.

The Eugene Review is not disposed to adopt the policy of the Albany Democrat, in uniting the Democracy on the basis of opposition to the Administration. The Review does not want anybody who is in favor of war, to have anything to do with the pure and unadulterated doctrine of peace upon which alone it plants its political faith. It will not support any man for any office who is in favor of sustaining the army or of doing anything whatever towards the prosecution of the war. It advises all Democrats to go over at once to the Abolition camp, as it gracefully terms the great and patriotic party, which is striving to save the country from the despotic tyranny of slavery. It knows no difference between such Democrats as Seymour—who talks very well, but always acts as the Government demands—and Dickinson and Butler, whose talk corresponds and is consistent with their actions. In fine, it quietly but decidedly gives the cold shoulder to all forms and professions of Democracy, which are not in favor of immediate peace. We think the Review is logical and commend its consistency even in its atrocious opposition to the Government. There is—there can be no Democracy or Democratic party, except it is hostile to the war, and to the institutions of freedom, in defence of which [illegible] has been forced upon the Republic. [illegible] rebellion is the offspring of the party [illegible] opposed to putting it down. Its sub[illegible] to slavery encouraged the South to [illegible] upon it as the ally of treason, and it has [illegible] to be all that was expected, as [illegible] man is disposed to be patriotic, [illegible] told that such notions [illegible] faith and practice of [illegible] is what the Review, [illegible] to the Democrat, and it is [illegible] ought to understand. We have not heard what place has been designated for the Northern Precinct; those, whose business it is to provide a room should see to it that ample [illegible] rtunity is given to every Union man to exercise his only privilege in expressing his individual wishes; for all steps taken subsequently are the work, not of the people, but of those who claim, fairly or otherwise, to represent them. Let the meetings, therefore, be fully attended and the best men selected as delegates.

Social Corruption at the South.—The Richmond Sentinel, though ardently devoted to the cause of the rebellion, is deeply exercised and alarmed on account of the enormous wickedness, which exists and runs riot at the South. It says:

"With God's blessing, Southern armies can never be beaten and subdued by one power, but by Federal bayonets never! But they can be beaten, whipped and destroyed by the Southern people! If, while our glorious sons dare their fate on bloody fields and endure sufferings unparalleled in history, and cheerfully submit to death, those who remain at home under friendly shelter, with soft pillows and domestic comforts, systematically rob the soldier's wife, impoverish his children and amass immense wealth and sport a splendid style, by processes of legalized swindling, bankrupting the Government, and reducing the very noblest of our population to prospective pauperism, the army will be beaten! There is a limit to human endurance, and those brave men may yet be compelled to turn in maddened fury upon the cormorant traitors left at home. There is no use in mincing words. These extortioners have no excuse nor reason for their conduct but infernal greed, and lust of gold, which would prompt many of them to barter country for "thirty pieces of silver," and sell their mothers for a consideration."

Hard Drinking.—In Richmond good whisky sells at $5,000 a barrel, rebel money. An inferior article can be had for $2,000. A glass of brandy commands five dollars.

A Wheel Within a Wheel.—The Supreme Court is not alone in the business of giving opinions on the currency. His Honor Judge Risdon, of Lane county, has had the matter before him for reasons stated below, and thus disposes of the question. Perhaps the Supreme Court will have no difficulty in overruling this decision, and then again perhaps it may slightly puzzle the distinguished conclave:

In County Court, for County Business, }
Lane County, Feb. 10, 1864. }

OPINION AND ORDER.

On considering the motion of the County Treasurer in the matter of tender of State Tax, the Court said:

Section 871 of the Code provides that "All actions, suits or proceedings by or against a county, are in the name of such county, but the county is represented by the County Court, and such Court has authority and power to control and direct the proceeding therein as if it were plaintiff or defendant as the case may be." And pursuant to law this Court did at the September Term, 1863, estimate and determine the amount of revenue to be raised for county purposes, and levied the same at the rate of five mills on the dollar, together with the rate required by law for other purposes, to wit: for School tax, two mills, and for State tax, three mills, together with State poll tax of one dollar, and also State military tax of two dollars upon all persons of the county liable to do military duty under the laws of this State.

And now comes the County Treasurer and avers tender to the State Treasurer in U. S. Tender Notes, Jan. 23d, 1864, of the amount charged by the State Treasurer in accordance with the report of the Secretary of State, to wit: the sum of $5,893 90, and presents receipt of deposit at Salem subject to the order of the State Treasurer, he having refused the tender, and moves this Court to take such action as it may deem expedient and that may indemnify him, having acted under the implied sanction of the Court and people. Now the law having devolved upon this Court the interests of the county, and hence made it the defendant of the legal rights of one of the most important counties of the State, it becomes the Court, without apology, to discharge that duty faithfully and fearlessly, alone giving the reasons for its conclusions and actions in the premises, and which are succinctly laid as follows, to wit:

At the September Term, 1863, the Supreme Court of this State by its decision determined in the affirmative the constitutionality of the Act of Congress authorizing their issue. Justices Prim and Stratton dissenting, and whose opinions, if not as legally sound nor patriotic, seem quite as consistent as the subsequent decisions of members of the majority of the Court, who, after deciding the constitutionality of the law of Congress and the legality of their tender for payment of all debts, public and private, except those mentioned in the Act, decide at Circuit Courts and Judges that they do not constitute a legal tender for State and county taxes on the ground that taxes are not technically debts, and thus as Circuit Courts and Judges at chambers overriding and ignoring also the decision of the Supreme Court of the State in the case of "Board of Commissioners of Multnomah county, plaintiffs in error, vs. State of Oregon, defendant in error. [see page 358 vol. I, Ogn. Rep.] The Supreme Court in this case cited held: "That when the State Treasurer charges to each county upon the report of the Secretary of State the amount of revenue assessed to each county for State purposes, the county and State stand in the relation of debtor and creditor for the amount charged, and on the day when the law has fixed the time of payment, it is a debt due and can be discharged only as all other debts are discharged."

Now this decision must stand until reversed, binding alike on all inferior Courts, including of course the Circuit Courts as well as this Court; and the Court regards these decisions of the Circuit Courts and Judges at chambers as contravening the rule established by the Supreme Court; and also within the scope of the Act of Congress seems a distinction without a legal difference, as much so as a fine imposed for assault and battery or other legal obligation would be, and as much so as duties on imports would have been had they not been excepted by the Act of Congress; and this exception itself seems to place the meaning and intent of the Act beyond question or cavil. Duties on imports are commonly denominated impost, which is rendered and defined primarily a tax laid by Government on goods imported, and is synonymous with the terms of the Act, and nothing more nor less under the Act than a debt or debts, and as such expressly excepted.

And further, the alternative of election of defending one suit with the law on the side of the county, or of prosecuting many in the attempt to collect revenue in coin alone against law, presented itself in such force as to determine the action of the Court. And as to the moral of paying public officers whose salaries and fees were fixed on the coin basis in greenbacks, which is the effect of such tender, we leave for a subsequent Legislature to consider. Believing this to be the proper course and the law valid we have acted accordingly. The State tax for 1862 was paid in coin, while the county revenue was received and fees and salaries paid in these notes, which ranged in exchange value from ten to fifty per cent. discount below the coin basis, and that so far as the office of County Judge is concerned, under a rule of unequal legislation the same officers of counties less populous at the time of the fixing of salaries receiving twice and thrice the sum per annum, fixed for this county. And now as to the provisions of our State revenue laws requiring payment of State taxes in gold coin, we add, that the Constitution of the United States [Art. VI] provides that "This Constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made or which shall be made under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land, and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding."

Wherefore, for all which and for other reasons, this Court is clearly of the opinion that these notes are a good legal tender in payment of State Taxes.

Wherefore it is ordered that the County Judge be and he is hereby authorized to employ or associate such counsel as he may deem necessary to defend any action which may be brought by the State for the recovery of coin for State taxes.

Gov. Andrew Johnson on Slavery and Compensated Labor.—In the course of a speech at the Eighth of January celebration in Nashville, Tenn., Governor Johnson remarked as follows on the progress of opinion in Tennessee:

"Before the rebellion we could discuss all institutions, all subjects, all measures except slavery. On that subject no one dared speak, or write or print, except on the side of the slave aristocracy. Now, thank God, the time has come when the press is unmuzzled—when the press can discuss this and all other subjects. The time has come when the institution is dead—when the chains are broken and the captive set free. The institution is dead and slaves are not worth a quarter of a dollar a dozen. Being dead, let us in a becoming manner, prepare for the funeral. Now is the time to dispose of the great question. It is a great question, and one which must be settled upon the great principle of human freedom; not by Abolitionists in the North nor by Secessionists in the South, but by that great law of self-preservation which governs all men alike. Slavery is a cancer upon the body politic, which must be rooted out before perfect health can be restored. The great law I refer to is now at work, and negroes and all things else which may be in the way, to impede its course, must get out. Don't go to inventing, but find out the principles of that law, and conform your actions thereto."

In the same speech Governor Johnson gave slave-holders the following sound advice:

"The Union and the Constitution must be preserved intact. I have owned slaves—slaves that I bought with my own money—money earned by myself, a quarter of a dollar at a time. They were confiscated and sold; yet two of them ran away from the rebel dominions and came here to me. I hired them—made a bargain with them for their labor, and thus recognized their freedom. And I find they do better than when they were slaves. Now, if any of you are slaveowners, I advise you to go and do likewise while you have the chance. Hire your negroes to work for you, and you will find they will do better labor for you than when they were slaves. By this means you will do your part in this great transition to teach them self-reliance. The edict has gone forth, and all that remains to be done is so change the relation of master and slave. The day is not far distant when this nation will be the great centre of civilization, of the arts and sciences and of true religion. Time was when the tide of emigration ran Westward: the time will soon be when it will run Southward. Let us go on without mighty work. To talk about breaking up a government like this for slavery! 'Tis madness. Let it go on with its great mission."

Solitary confinement of prisoners has been abandoned in the State prison of Michigan, on account of the evil consequences attendant upon the punishment; most of those so confined becoming hopelessly insane.

Smart.—A wag wrote over the door of a schoolhouse, "New England Whaling Institution."

Additional Eastern News.

New York, Feb. 19.—The Creole, from New Orleans Feb. 11th, has arrived. Admiral Farragut, with the greater portion of his fleet, had left New Orleans.

There is nothing of interest from Texas; not even a skirmish is reported.

Nearly a mile of the levee at Point Coupee recently fell into the Mississippi. The levees at Baton Rouge are sadly out of repair, and overflows are apprehended.

The Herald's Key West correspondent mentions the capture of the steamer Cumberland. Her cargo cost £70,000 in England. It includes 100 barrels of gunpowder and a large quantity of Enfield rifles, army clothes, boots and shoes.

Boston, Feb. 19th.—A fire at Gloucester, Mass., yesterday destroyed 50 stores and 15 dwellings. Forty families are houseless. It is difficult to estimate the loss, which cannot, however, fall short of $400,000.

New York, Feb. 19.—The Times' special dispatch, dated Feb. 18th, says: Senator Sumner's report on the Fugitive Slave Law and the legalization of the Emancipation Proclamation was read to the Committee to-day. It will be presented to the Senate on Monday, the 22d.

Several hundred copies of the Amnesty Proclamation have been sent to Lee's army within a week, and the effect is already perceptible in the increased number of deserters.

The officers who escaped from Richmond have been granted a furlough of 30 days.

The pledges of the Government for coin amount to $22,000,000.

Cairo, Feb. 10.—It is ascertained that 14 lives were lost by the sinking of the steamer Orient—mostly deck hands and firemen.

Headquarters Dep't of the West, Feb. 19.—From reports of deserters and refugees, it is evident the rebels are making extensive preparations along the line of the Tennessee and Virginia railroad, either apprehending an advance from us or preparing for an offensive move themselves.

New York, Feb. 19.—A New Orleans correspondent reports firing into the steamer Sallie Robinson, by guerrillas, near Donaldsonville, La., on the morning of Feb. 10th. Nobody was hurt.

Capt. Fiske, of the northern overland exhibition, reports that fifteen millions in gold dust are at Idaho awaiting transportation to New York. Over twelve thousand miners are on the ground, mostly old Californians. Capt. Fiske has a nugget valued at $250, as a present from a miner to President Lincoln. Fiske estimates the emigration to Idaho this summer at a hundred thousand.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—A Chattanooga telegram says Sherman's troops destroyed the bridge on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, severing the connection between Polk's forces and Mobile. Great consternation exists in consequence.

The Senate, in Executive session, confirmed Chas. Hutchins of Oregon as Indian agent for the Territory of Idaho, and G. H. Moore, Assessor of Internal Revenue for the Territory of Washington in place of Sparks.

Conness of California introduced a joint resolution, which was passed, authorizing the President to transfer persons from the land to the naval service. He explained that the resolution was to give discretionary power to the President to transfer seamen enlisted in the army to the navy, and to make up crews for ships-of-war to be sent to the Pacific coast. He said the Navy Department was ready to send ships to that coast for its protection, but by reason of the great bounties paid to soldiers the Navy Department could not get sailors, and this resolution was to meet the difficulty and enable the Government to send such a fleet to the Pacific as would give that coast ample protection against attack.

Cairo, Feb. 19.—Helena, Arkansas, letters report that the guerrillas are very active in that vicinity. Gen. N. B. Buford's cavalry were equally active in attending to them.

From Memphis we learn that Forrest, when last heard from, was at Panola, Miss. His command, numbering 8,000, was scattered over the northern part of that State in small detachments, engaged in conscripting and pillaging.

Foreign News.

Sandy Hook, Feb. 19.—The City of Manchester, from Liverpool Feb. 3d, and Queenstown Feb. 4th, has arrived. The news is highly important.

An engagement of six hours duration had taken place between the Danes and Germans at Husum. The Danish outposts were driven in by the Germans, but the Danes repulsed their assault on the place.

Liverpool, Feb. 4.—There has been a general attack on Husum by the Germans. Their loss was 150 to 200. The Prussian loss was 250 to 300—some accounts say much greater.

London, Feb. 4.—The Austrians attacked Bustorf yesterday. The Danes held their own. An attack on the whole Danish line, from Husum to Agel, is expected to take place to-day.

It is asserted that England has offered to guarantee all that Austria and Prussia have demanded of Denmark.

The Alabama was on the watch for vessels 150 miles south of Rungoon, on the 5th January. The ship Martaban, formerly an American, and the bark Texan Star, had been destroyed by her.

The Morning Times has the following telegram dated Schleswig, Feb. 3d: "At 3 P. M. this day the Austrians attacked the position of Bustorf, one English mile south Schleswig. The Danes held their ground, with sharp fighting, until dark. The Danes lost one field-piece. The wounded are being brought in."

The Times seems inclined to cast upon Parliament the task of deciding the policy of the Cabinet. It says the future course of British policy rests with the House of Commons. All that a neutral State may do will, no doubt, be sanctioned by Parliament and public opinion. There is great anxiety in England for the meeting of Parliament, to learn the policy of the Government on the Danish question.

The Herald says the Government will do nothing for Denmark. The Peace Society has memorialized Lord Russell against intervention.

It was rumored that Disraeli and Derby will make strong attacks on Russell, and that the Cabinet (except Russell and Gladstone) is prepared to support Denmark.

The Times says: The question whether a state of war on the part of Austria and Prussia against Denmark, now definitely existing, is such as to imperil the ships of those nations at present, in the ports of this country, if they should put to sea, and meet Danish cruisers, has been the subject of anxious discussion.

Field Marshal Wrangel, in a proclamation to the Schleswigers, says he is there to protect their rights and civil privileges.

Austria and Prussia will assume the administration of the Duchies of Schleswig and Holstein.

It is asserted that Napoleon is more resolved than ever to take no active part in the Danish question, but to leave the difficulties of the settlement to England.

New York, Feb. 19.—The following is a summary of the Virginia's news, which left Liverpool 2d:

Marshal Wrangel, on the 31st January, commanded the Danes to evacuate Schleswig forthwith. General Demera refused, whereupon the Prussians passed the frontier and shots were exchanged without effect. The Danes retreated after blowing up a large bridge. The Prussians, on the 1st of February, advanced to Gettorf and Eckinforde, establishing their headquarters at Gettorf. The Danish ships at Eckinforde, after exchanging shots with the Prussians, sailed away. The entire Austro-Prussian cavalry entered Schleswig through Rendsburg on the 1st, and large masses of troops were pressing forward.

The London Morning Post thinks the difficulty looks threatening, but believes that the German powers profess to enter Schleswig not with the intention of dismembering Denmark, but only to seize a material guarantee for the performance of engagements. The Post says England is in honor bound to furnish material support to Denmark.

Forest Grove, February 26th, 1864.

Editor Oregonian:

I am at a loss to understand why it is so strongly insisted that the Republican party is dead, and has no more vitality than the Democratic. Surely, it cannot be denied that the doctrines of the Republicans control the Administration and Congress. The Union party endorses and assumes all their measures while it utterly repudiates every Democratic theory and practice. Why then do men, who have been Democrats, persist in declaring that the Union party is entirely new and has no sympathy with the avowed objects of those who elected Mr. Lincoln, and who defeated the demagogue leaders of the Democracy. The plain truth is, the Republican party was a Union party, and lives now throughout the country just as much as it did in 1860, and as one of its members then, I am unwilling to be told that its existence is over, when I know that all which is good in the Union organization comes from it.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The Court at St. Johns, New Brunswick, has committed the Chesapeake pirates to prison to await a requisition from the United States.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Gov. Johnson and the Tennessee delegation had a long interview with the President relative to the restoration of Tennessee to the Union. It is understood that while they do not favor the plan of the President, yet the interview was agreeable. They say Tennessee will soon be formally restored with a civil government.

Louisville, Feb. 25.—The Freedom Convention adjourned on Tuesday. A resolution was passed declaring slavery to be the strength of the rebellion; that they saw no hopes of peace until the principles of freedom, as announced in the Declaration of Independence, are carried into practice by the Federal Constitution; that it was proper for the Constitution of the United States to be so amended as to secure freedom to all within its jurisdiction; that during the war the President has full power to free slaves in the rebellious districts, and they are thereby invested with all the rights of freemen; that in the present rebellion this power should be exercised to the fullest extent; that with respect to the President's Amnesty Proclamation, it has injured the Union cause, its operation is unjust and humiliating to loyal men and would urge its suspension until armed rebellion is crushed. Another resolution provides for a permanent organization in slave States of Freedom Conventions, with a Committee consisting of one member from each slave State to carry out its principles. The Convention declared itself favorable to an amendment to the Constitution making the President eligible for only one term. The proceedings were generally harmonious. Towards the close considerable confusion prevailed, principally upon minor points.

Special to the Daily Oregonian.

San Francisco, Feb. 25.—Dr. Sheldon, to-day, removed an eye of the murdered courtesan, Mrs. Smith, and after dissecting it obtained a photograph of the retina. The result is a man's whiskers, nose and legs are discernible, but the picture is not sufficient for a clue to the murderer. There was evidently little or no light in the room at the time of the murder. Dr. Sheldon will now remove the sclerotica, exposing the surface of the retina. He expects to get a better picture to-morrow, and it is probable that a recognizable picture may be obtained. In the meantime the detective police force will pursue their investigations. They have obtained some clue, the nature of which cannot be divulged.

San Francisco, Feb. 26.—Brig Glenco arrived to-day, 39 days from Kanagawha, and also the ship Henry Brigham, 40 days from Shanghae, via Kanagawha in 28 days. The latter brings Japan dates to the 27th January. The captain reports that the mail from Shanghae had just arrived at Kanagawha when the Brigham sailed, but he was unable to procure any late China papers. Letters from Shanghae up to the 19th January were received on board and are now in San Francisco. The following is from the memoranda: the Mahilla had arrived a week previous to the sailing of the Glencoe. Up to that time there was no confirmation of the capture of the Alabama. The following is from a correspondence dated Kanagawha, Jan. 15th: "We regret to say that the news as to the capture of the Alabama was not confirmed. It is believed, however, that she is blockaded by the Wyoming at or near Laigow (?) and not in dock at Amoy as reported."

Novel Replevin Suit.—A replevin suit of a novel character was commenced yesterday in Justice Coggins' Court by Patrick Kelly against Edward Dunn for the recovery of a hen. It is alleged by Kelly that he made an agreement some time ago with Dunn to loan him a game hen to keep until she should lay "a clutch of eggs." In return, Dunn agreed to loan Kelly his game hen until she should lay a "clutch of eggs." The exchange was made—the object being to improve, by cross-breeding, the fighting stock of the two owners. A "clutch" is said by those who are learned in Hibernia classic to signify a dozen. The exchange was made several weeks ago, but it appears that the hens were either not consulted as to the terms or misunderstood their part of the programme, or claim that they are entitled to the entire season in which to "fill the bill." Kelly states that Dunn's hen had not laid an egg and therefore he took her home. Dunn asserts that Kelly's hen had not laid an egg, and therefore he determined to keep her until she should lay the required number. In this position of affairs Kelly found that Dunn had a decided advantage over him by having possession of both hens. Kelly alleges, however, that he can prove that his hen did lay two or three eggs for Dunn, and he knows that if she laid that number she would not stop until she laid a clutch of them. He values the hen at $30, and describes her in the complaint as "a red and black hen, with green legs, known as the bluff clipper breed." In response to questions from Constable Reed he states orally that she has "no Spanish brands" on her. A bond in the sum of $120 was filed in the case, the necessary papers were issued, and the Constable took possession of the hen and holds her subject to the order of the Court. Whether that tribunal will determine that Kelly shall have his hen, or that Dunn shall retain possession of her, or that the hens shall proceed to lay the eggs forthwith or take their time to do it, are points which the learned in the law alone can foresee.—*Sac. ROSEBURG, OREGON, March 1st.

To David Logan, Esq., Mayor of the City of Portland:

SIR—The residents of Roseburg send their compliments, through you, to the citizens of Portland, and congratulate you and them upon the final completion of the Telegraph from Portland to the Eastern States. S. F. Chadwick, Esq., Roseburg:

The citizens of Portland fully reciprocate the pleasure expressed by you at the consummation of the great work, connecting us with distant parts of the State and our great Union.

We publish the correspondence, which shows a good will and appreciation on the part of all:

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE CITY COUNCIL.—mon Council convened in special session two o'clock yesterday afternoon, to measures for an appropriate arrangement the funeral obsequies of Mr. Thos. , deceased, late a member of the The funeral is to take place to-day, it was resolved that the Council should in a body, together with the Mayor City Officers, and that they meet at the Council Chamber at 1½ o'clock this afternoon for that purpose. A committee of three, composed of Councilmen Zeiber, Dodge and Lu were appointed to draft resolutions of condolement, to be presented this evening, at regular meeting. Council then adjourned, their deliberations were marked with becoming respect to their deceased brother member. The vacant chair was turned up against the he formerly occupied, and bore the usual insignia of mourning. At the door was the greeting. Councilman Knott announced the close of the meeting that the ferry be free to all attending the funeral in the river, and requested us to make announcement.

DISPOSAL OF CATS.—A novel mode of disposing of a surplus amount of the feline species domestic concomitants, has quite recently come to light, at the upper part of the A man discovered a floating apple box, the edge of the river, which from appearances was not empty. With visions of luscious specimens of "big red apples" before him, industriously set about obtaining the coveted prize, and at length succeeded in getting on shore; but imagine his feelings, the vision of apples was dispelled, by reality of five drowned cats, and a large which were presented to his view.

RECORDER'S COURT.—In Recorder's Court yesterday the docket shows the following cases, and their disposal: George Evans, d. & d., and $5 and costs—paid. James McCabe, being drunk and disorderly, was fined $10 and costs—not having the change he was sent to the Hotel de Villa, or City Jail, as it is termed in vulgar parlance, to board for five days. David Hutchinson, the boy who drew a pistol on his teacher, was fined, and in default of payment will receive three days in the City Jail.

MR. WAKEFIELD commenced the collection of subscriptions to the Library Fund yesterday. We believe he will meet with success, as it is a matter of importance that the Association should get under way, by having its rooms located, opened, and the Library started with an invoice of books.

A CAYUSE TRAIN.—We noticed a train of sixty Cayuse pack horses in the city yesterday on their route to the mines. The horses were in fine condition, and looked able enough to carry a load of gold for their owner. We understand they came from Dayton, in this State.

FLAGS AT HALF MAST.—The display of flags at half mast yesterday, from the Public square and different Engine Houses, was in respect to Mr. Watson, deceased being a member of Columbian Co. No. 3, as well, also, as of the Common Council.

RAIN.—It commenced to rain at an early hour last evening, which considerably "dampened" the ardor of sundry persons, returning from sociables, euchre parties, and the theatre.

THE THEATRE.—Willamette Theatre was as well filled last evening as is usual for it, and the audience appeared as appreciative as we have ever before witnessed in that house. The play of "Hamlet" was enthusiastically received. The names of J. H. Taylor, A. R. Phelps, Miss Virginia Howard, and Miss Douglas all appear marked on our copy of the programme as especially deserving for their perfect readings. The other parts were well sustained. We commend the Company to the public. "Nell Gwynn" will be reproduced this evening.

A HACK, capable of carrying twelve passengers, was on the wharf for shipment to the Cascades yesterday. It is to be put upon the line between Umatilla City and the mines, by Ish & Co.

PERSONAL.—We notice a number of politicians in our city, from the interior. They have business of importance on hand, connected with the coming June election.

At a meeting of Columbian Engine Co. No. 3, held on Tuesday evening, March 1st, 1864, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to remove from our midst, and from the field of his earthly duties, while yet in the prime of life, our brother fireman, Thomas L. Watson; and

WHEREAS, By this sad bereavement we are called upon to mourn the loss of a true friend, an ardent fireman and a good citizen; therefore be it

Resolved, That in this sudden affliction we see the hand of a Divine Providence who smites but for our good, and who in this unlooked for warning, reminds us that, "in the midst of life we are in death; that our heartfelt sympathies and condolence be extended to the bereaved widow, relatives and friends of our deceased brother in this their, as well as our affliction.

The Superfluous Man.

BY JOHN [illegible] SAXE

[It is ascertained by inspection of the registers of many countries that the uniform proportion of male to female births is as twenty-one to twenty; accordingly, in respect to marriage every twenty-first man is naturally superfluous.—Smith's Treatise on Population.]

I long have been puzzled to guess,
And so I have frequently said,
What the reason could really be
That I never have happened to wed;
But now it is perfectly clear
I am under a natural ban;
The girls are already assigned—
And I'm a superfluous man!

Those clever statistical chaps
Declare the [illegible]
Of women and men in the world
Is twenty to twenty and one,
And hence in the pairing, you see,
Since wooing and wedding began,
For every connubial score
They've got a superfluous man!

By twos and twenties they go,
And giddily rush to their fate,
For none of the number, of course,
Can fail of a conjugal mate;
But while they are yielding in scores
To Nature's inflexible plan,
There's never a woman for me—
For I'm a superfluous man!

It isn't that I am a churl
To solitude over inclined;
It isn't that I am at fault
In morals or manners or mind;
Then what is the reason, you ask,
I am still with the bachelor clan?
I merely was numbered amiss—
And I'm a superfluous man!

It isn't that I am in want
Of personal beauty or grace,
For many a man with a wife
Is uglier far in the face;
Indeed, among elegant men
I fancy myself in the van;
But what is the value of that,
When I'm a superfluous man?

Although I am fond of the girls,
For aught I could ever discern
The tender emotion I feel
Is one that they never return;
'Tis idle to quarrel with fate,
For struggle as hard as I can,
They're mated already, you know,—
And I'm a superfluous man!

No wonder I grumble at times,
With women so pretty and plenty,
To know that I never was born
To figure as one of the twenty;
But yet, when the average lot
With critical vision I scan,
I think it may be for the best
That I'm a superfluous man!

The Blossom in the Wilderness.

(Concluded.)

"What he did there was never exactly known, but in a little while it was rumored that the suit was withdrawn, and, come spring, Lucy Reid was to be married to Stillman Wheeler. And so it was. One bright March day she went into the old church yonder, and gave herself to him.

"He was a good looking man, but not over smart, the neighbors whispered, and I always thought it was his money more than anything else that kept him up."

"But Justin, Grandma Deane—what became of Justin?"

"There is a dark look about the whole matter. Lucy was made the victim of some terrible falsehood. I never blamed her father, for the thought of losing the old homestead seemed completely to shatter him.

"I only know that Squire Wheeler and his son were at the bottom of it, and that Lucy Reid went to the altar believing that Justin Keep had been false to her."

"Dear me! How dreadful! Did he ever come back?"

"Yes, the next May. Lucy had been a wife two months. Justin had not heard of her marriage. She was at home visiting her father. When she met him at the door, she fell down like one suddenly stricken with a fit.

"But he carried her into the house, and there they learned all. Both had been deceived!

"It was a terrible scene that old front room witnessed. Justin swore a terrible oath of vengeance; and it was not till, with clasped hands and streaming eyes, the young wife kneeled to the only man she had ever loved, and pleaded for the life of her husband, that he promised, for her sake, to spare him.

"But from the day of Justin's visit, Lucy Wheeler was a changed woman. All the gladness of her being seemed dead in her, and she moved about her house pale and quiet, with a look of patient suffering in her once sunny eyes, that made my heart ache to behold."

"And her husband? Did she ever tell him what she had learned?"

"I think not. His father and Lucy's died in less than two years after the marriage. The Squire was much less wealthy than people supposed. The next spring Lucy and her husband removed West, and somehow people lost sight of them."

"And Justin?"

"You know the rest, my child. He became a moody, unhappy man, asking no sympathy and giving none. But he was always smart at a bargain, and in a few years he laid up enough to buy out Deacon Platt's farm, when his son moved to the South.

"Ever since he has added acres to his lands, and hundreds to the banks; but for all that, he is a man soured toward all his race—a man who was never known to give a little child a smile, or a beggar a crust of bread. I have sometimes thought that his heart was a great desert, without a tree to shade or a stream to gladden it. And yet it bore a bright blossom once, and, believe me, children, for it is the word of an old woman, who has seen and known much of the ways of men, it is so always. The heart may be a great wilderness, but in some of its shy ways, there has grown a flower!"

Cora and I looked at each other and at Uncle Charlie. Just then Aunt Myra came in. She had been out, and had not heard of Grandma Deane's visit.

But Cora stole up to her uncle, and, winding her arms about his neck, whispered—

"I shall believe it, always, Uncle Charlie, now I have heard that story about Farmer Keep, that there is a blossom in the wilderness of every heart."

It was a sultry August day in the summer I passed at Meadowbrook. The wind, low, and slumberous as the hush of a voice at night fall, crept up through the corn, and down among the rye and wheat fields, that lay like broad, green folds about the dwelling of Farmer Keep. There was no poem of flowers written about the front yard, no graceful, harmonizing touches of creeping vine or waving curtains about the red homestead, and yet it had a quiet, substantial, matter-of-fact physiognomy, that somehow made a home feeling about your heart.

I think it must have been this unconscious feeling which decided the course of the girl, who stood at the point where the two roads diverged, and gazed wistfully about her that afternoon.

She seemed very tired, and her coarse straw bonnet and calico dress were covered with dust. If you had looked in her face, you would not have forgotten it. It could not have seen more than fifteen summers. It was very pale, and its sweet, sad beauty made you think of nothing but forest flowers drenched with summer rains. Her eyes were of that deep, moist blue, that rolls out from under the edge of April clouds, and her lips, ripe and full as meadow strawberries, had that touching sorrowfulness about them which tells you always the heart beneath is full of tears.

The girl's hand clasped tightly the little boy's by her side. The resemblance between them would have told you at once they were brother and sister, but his life could not have covered more than a third of hers. The little fellow's large eyes were full of tears, and the bright curls that crept out from his hat were damp with [illegible]. He was [illegible] tired, and [illegible]. What [illegible] can one tell of a little child!

"There, Benny, [illegible] up. [illegible] old red house there [illegible]. Don't it look [illegible]?" said the girl, in a tone [illegible]ness, as she [illegible].

"Yes. But I [illegible] so tired [illegible] half a big piece of bread and [illegible]."

"Well, dear, I'll try and get [illegible] there. It don't seem like [illegible] in the country."

A few moments later she opened the [illegible] back gate and went up to the kitchen [illegible]. Farmer Keep's housekeeper—[illegible] with a yellow, white cap and [illegible] over her linsey woolsey skirt—answered her knock.

"Do you want any help, or do you know of anybody round here that does?" timidly asked the girl.

The old lady peered at her with dim eyes.

"No," she said, "[illegible] ain't but [illegible] us—Farmer Keep and [illegible] and me. It's harvest time just now [illegible], and I reckon you'll find a place up in the village."

"Thank you. Benny here [illegible] there—is very tired. We've walked from the depot since ten o'clock. Can't you let us come in and rest awhile?"

"Sartin you can."

The sight of the little child touched the heart of the old woman, and [illegible] large, old-fashioned kitchen, and sat down in the flag bottomed chairs, while, with a glowing cheek, the girl cast about in her mind for the best manner in which to present her petition for food.

Before she had decided, the master of the house suddenly entered the kitchen, for it was nearly dinner time. He was a large, muscular, broad chested, sun burnt man, with a hard, gloomy expression on the face, where sixty years were beginning to write their history. He stood still with surprise, gazing on the new occupants of the kitchen, and the boy drew close to his sister, and the girl threw up a timid, frightened glance into the gloomy face.

"You don't know of nobody round here that wants a little help, do ye, farmer?" asked the old woman. "Here's a girl wants a place, and as she's walked from the depot, I told her she might come in and rest a bit afore she went up into the village to try her luck."

"No," shortly answered the farmer. "Dinner ready?" and the rich man turned away, without one gentle word or kindly look for the homeless children whom God had brought to his door.

"Lucy, Lucy, don't stay here. I'm afraid," and the little boy's lips curled and quivered as he turned his face from the farmer's.

"Lucy! Lucy!" How those little trembling tones went down, down into the man's hard heart! How the dead days of his youth burst out of their graves, and rushed through his memory at that low, broken "Lucy! Lucy!"

He turned and looked at the girl, not sourly as before, but with a kind of eager, questioning interest.

"What is your name?"

"Lucy Wheeler."

He staggered back, and caught hold of the nearest chair.

"And what was your mother's?"

"Lucy Reid. She used to live in Meadowbrook, and so I came here to get work, for she told me to before she died."

At that moment, the angels looked down and saw the seed that had lain for two score years in the heart of Justin Keep spring up, and the flower blossomed in the wilderness!

He strode across the kitchen to the bewildered girl. He brushed back her bonnet, and turned her face to the light. He could not be mistaken. It was the one framed and hung up in the darkened room of his soul. The blue eyes of his Lucy looked once more into his own. At that moment the little boy pushed up between them, and gazed wistfully into the man's face. Farmer Keep sat down and took the child on his knee. He tried to speak, but instead great sobs came up, and heaved his strong chest. The trio in the kitchen gazed on him in mute astonishment.

"Lucy's children! Lucy's children!" he murmured at last, in a voice whose tenderness was like that of a mother. "God has sent you to me. For her sake this shall be your home, for her sake I will be a father to you."

Five years afterward Cora wrote to me—

"We are having fine times, now, dear Cousin Jennie, and mamma wants to know if you do not need to renew your rosy cheeks among the dews of Meadowbrook. Uncle Charlie is with us this summer, and if you were here also, my happiness would be complete.

"Lucy Wheeler—you remember her—has the place in my heart next to yours. Her disposition is as lovely as her face, and that is saying a great deal, for its rare, sweet beauty does one good to behold it. Farmer Keep seems to worship her and Benny. He is a changed man, now, and goes to church regularly as the Sabbath. He has spared no pains or expense in Lucy's education, and she will be a most accomplished woman. She is here very often, and I have my suspicions that Uncle Charlie—n'importe, I will not trust this to pen and paper.

"But, oh, Jennie, what a lesson has all this taught me! How it has deepened my faith in God and humanity!

"Now, when my heart yearns over the wretched, the sinning, the outcast, I remember always, THERE IS A FLOWER IN THE WILDERNESS."

"A LITTLE SURPRISE."—In a gay circle of the Faubourg St. Honore, Paris, they were complimenting the beautiful Duchess de [illegible] on the approaching and apparent birth of an heir to so illustrious a house as her own.—"Say nothing of it to my husband," she replied, "it's a nice little surprise I'm preparing for him."

Punch says that a Yankee baby will crawl out of his cradle, take a survey of it, invent an improvement, and apply for a patent before he is six months old.

EXTRACT BUCHU,

A POSITIVE AND SPECIFIC REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL
AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.

This Medicine increases the power of DIGESTION and excites the ABSORBENTS into healthy action, by which the WATERY or CALCAREOUS depositions, and all UNNATURAL ENLARGEMENTS are reduced, as well as PAIN and INFLAMMATION, and is good for MEN, WOMEN OR CHILDREN.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For Weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse,

ATTENDED WITH THE FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

Indisposition to Exertion,
Loss of Memory,
Weak Nerves,
Horror of Disease,
Dimness of Vision,
Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System,
Hot Hands,
Dryness of the Skin,
Loss of Power,
Difficulty of Breathing,
Trembling,
Wakefulness,
Pain in the Back,
Flushing of the Body,
Eruptions on the Face,
Pallid Countenance.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows

Impotency, Fatuity, Epileptic Fits,

IN ONE OF WHICH THE PATIENT MAY EXPIRE.

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

"INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION,"

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess.

THE RECORDS OF THE INSANE ASYLUMS,

And the melancholy deaths by Consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion that

THE CONSTITUTION,
once affected by Organic Weakness,
Requires the Aid of Medicine, to strengthen and invigorate the system, which
HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
invariably does.

A Trial will Convince the most Skeptical.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,
AND
HELMBOLD'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH
CURES SECRET DISEASES,

In all their Stages,
At Little Expense;
Little or no Change in Diet;
No Inconvenience,
AND NO EXPOSURE.

It causes a frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby Removing Obstructions, preventing and curing Strictures of the Urethra, allaying Pain and Inflammation, so frequent in the class of Diseases, and expelling all Poisonous, diseased and worn out matter.

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS
Who have been the victims of Quacks

and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "POISON" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after marriage.

Use Helmbold's Extract Buchu

For all Affections and Diseases of the URINARY ORGANS, whether existing in MALE OR FEMALE, from whatever cause originating and

NO MATTER OF HOW LONG STANDING.

Diseases of these Organs require the aid of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
IS THE GREAT DIURETIC,

And it is certain to have the desired effect in Diseases for which it is recommended.

Evidence of the most Responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines.
